SUNDOWN LIGHTING JOINS THE LINC GROUP

LAKE FOREST, CALIFORNIA — April 30, 2007 — Sundown Lighting & Electrical announced today it has been acquired by The Linc[®] Group, LLC (TLG), the only pure service company in the country to offer a single source for integrated facility maintenance and operations needs. With the acquisition, Sundown becomes the foundation company of TLG's new lighting and electrical vertical business unit and joins TLG's other established business units Linc Facility Services, Linc Network, and Linc Mechanical/Linc Service.

"Sundown's solid presence in California and more than 25 years experience in the market makes it the ideal candidate to be the centerpiece of our new lighting and electrical vertical business unit," said Tracy Price, president and CEO of The Linc Group. "We've been searching for the right company for more than two years. Sundown's executive talent, culture, core service model, and quality focus align perfectly with TLG's award-winning business methodology. It's a perfect fit all around."

Sundown's founder, Joe Thraikill will lend his expertise to TLG by continuing in his role as Sundown's COO. Darin Anderson will remain president of Sundown, and will also serve as president of the new Linc Lighting and Electrical Services division. Sundown retains its name but will be branded as "A Linc Group Company."

"We are proud to join the Linc family of companies and are excited to help them establish a new division in the lighting and electrical market," said Sundown President Darin Anderson. "Like Linc, we are very passionate about innovating, delivering the highest quality work, and exceeding performance standards. Through the application of Linc's proven technology and our expertise in the lighting and electrical service market, we will provide better quality solutions for our customers."
